

professional summary jessica clare 100 montgomery st 10th floor 555 4321000 4 resumesampleexample m used machine learning create linear regression logistic regression clustering models created inter active dashboards tableau shared users technical business analyst 4 years experience healthcare orac le applications depth knowledge hipaa 4010 5010 icd 9 10 hl7 edi file formats like 837 ipd 835 claim s extensive design experience creating process flow diagrams using ibm blueworks live uml diagrams u se cases activity diagrams sequence diagrams using ms visio rational rose adept creating transformin g business requirements functional requirements designing business models using uml diagrams use cas e sequence activity diagrams dataflow diagrams data modeling excel liaising business technical areas achieve ontime onbudget onspec project completions good project management skills experience webbas ed collaboration tools webex gotomeeting lyncskype business good knowledge healthcare revenue cycle management good understanding oracle financial modules ap gl fa ar extensive knowledge oracle plsql oracle reports oracle forms comprehensive knowledge sdlc experience black box regression integration uat load performance testing experience tracking reporting status supervisor per established weekly status reporting process identify issues risks bring supervisors attention sufficient leadtime aver t crises participate actively weekly team status meetings program management office pmo meetings goo d experience release planning management expertise implementing systems development agile scrum rup waterfall methodologies excellent communication presentation skills experience development implement ation integration strategies within teamoriented environment skills machine learning statistics data mining people development communication strategy python database management data management ba ath analytical skills visualization crossfunctional collaboration project management work history da ta science python 102018 current change healthcare robesonia pa exploratory data analysis eda using python studied statistical analysis business applications like population sample statistical analysi s considerations data distributions dispersion histograms performed mathematical computation dataset s numpy used scipy scientific computation data manipulation pandas used machine learning natural lan guage processing scikit learn created data visualization models using matplotlib python integration hadoop map reduce spark leveraged mathematical techniques develop engineering scientific solutions t ested validated models accuracy predictions outcomes interest implemented randomized sampling techni ques optimized surveys improved data collection methods designing surveys polls instruments modeled predictions feature selection algorithms compiled cleaned manipulated data proper handling applied l oss functions variance explanation techniques compare performance metrics project movielens dataset analysis details follows group lens research project research group department computer science engi neering university minnesota researchers group involved many research projects related fields inform ation filtering collaborative filtering recommender systems performed analysis using exploratory dat a analysis technique applied tools machine learning predict survivors tragedy presented findings ora lly writing advanced mathematical models ran statistical analyses within software process large data sets daca scientist university kansas medical center manhattan ks customer lifetime value model nonc ontractual setting 012016 102021 estimated value customer based purchase behaviour using loglikeliho od mcmc model predicted churn rate transaction frequency expected lifespan customer based rfm data p roduced error accuracy plots demonstrate trade prediction quality prediction duration visual recomme nder based convolutional neural network modified learning rate decay network handle vanishing explod ing gradient problems effectively enhanced neural network perform iterative logging weights based ma ximum validation accuracy improved performance recommender implementing dropout layers avoid fitting market basket analysis generate association rules item bundles calculated support lift confidence g enerated association rules generate recommendation experimented fpgrowth algorithm significantly imp rove performance compared apriority extended model account sequence purchases improve quality predic tions provided comprehensive analysis recommend solutions address complex business problems issues sing data internal external sources applied advanced analytical methods assess factors impacting gro with profitability across product service offerings developed quarterly roadmaps based impact effort test coordinations working stakeholders achieve shortterm longterm goals collaborated internal stakeholders identifying gathering analytical requirements customer product projects needs created cultivated test learn culture among crm digitization groups creating executing structured experimentations based datadriven market ideas developed datagathering reporting structures ground strategized methods capitalizing system features evaluated processes data identifying productivity gains sales growth within digitization segment applied statistical algebraic techniques interpret key points gathered data leveraged analytics drive business development productivity process improvement marketing strategies including customer lifetime modeling acquisition retention win backs monetization implemented randomized sampling techniques optimized surveys applied loss functions variance explanation techniques compare performance metrics compiled cleaned manipulated data proper handling improved data collection methods designing surveys polls instruments phd student walden university city state 062015 082020 dissertation fulfillment phd study topic construction project management maturity model determination correlation success factor research grounded theories leadership management organizational behavior project management quantitative data collected 190 professional managers government consultant contractors 90 variables 20000 data entry used research remote data collection tools methods effectively used complete study successfully designed apply methods find solutions project management failures related key project management knowledge driving project succeed failed defended well study released online since september open source time application 580 copies downloaded school apply fresh energy fields one critical resource education phd management walden university minneapolis mn master arts economics indra gandhi national open university new delhi certifications affiliations master philosophy management walden university minneapolis mn operation management indra gandhi national open university new delhi bachelor science civil engineering addis ababa university faculty technology addis ababa 082020 122019 042019 082013 071998 executive leadership certified national society leadership success advanced leadership certified national society leadership success practicing professional construction management moc 2015 present american national society leadership success lifetime member american project management institute member ethiopian society civil engineers member