

robert smith associate data scientist infoqwikresumecom linkedin profile qwikresumecom career mathematics obtaining analytic position data software development and/or strategy experience associate data scientist abc corporation march 2012-june 2015 searched organized analyzed clinical data regarding in vitro fertilization used statistical analysis determine data behavior used machine learning data create predictive models regarding ivf outcomes live birth pregnancy multiple birth discussed data model's research development team make best possible products consumers designed revised forms manuals company documents includes product input forms test results forms files internal external use managed coworkers certain projects regarding qa testing product development data scientist abc corporation 2011-2012 conceptualized built model implements predictive filling clinical fields within emr using historical data making easier physicians document also aiding physicians make better clinical decisions built model data mine clinical data payers providers derive patterns insights developed prototype investigate occurrences medication prescription leading unexpected diagnosis view prevent monitor undesirable impact medication patients conceptualized implemented monitoring algorithm enables early detection adverse events medical practices adverse event detection vast improvement existing methods flag adverse events prototyped model predict diagnosis risks individual patients using existing emr data application machine learning algorithms model developed proven help assist doctors make better clinical decisions free resume template copyright qwikresumecom usage guidelines